

- 12 An equilibrium is set up, in a vessel at constant temperature and atmospheric pressure, according to the following reaction.

The vessel is attached to a plunger which can alter the pressure inside the vessel. At a time t , the plunger is pulled out quickly to lower the pressure and then is released to allow the pressure to slowly return to atmospheric pressure. The constant temperature is maintained.

Which graph shows the change in the rate of the forward reaction during this pressure change?

