

- 9 A student carries out an investigation using silicon dioxide. All experiments are carried out at room temperature.

Which observations would the student make of the results of these experiments?

- A No solid remains in any experiment.
- B A solid remains in one experiment only.
- C A solid remains in two experiments only.
- D Solid remains in all three experiments.